

NAMING OF SCHOOL FACILITIES

Schools play a critical role in our neighbourhoods and are the hub of our communities. The names given to our schools are significant and require considerable thought and consultation and should reflect the surrounding community's history and/or geographic area.

With a number of projects currently underway, and new schools opening every school year, the district is focused on engaging each school community to gather potential names for the sites and engage the community to gather feedback on the names currently being considered.

The goal is to have a list of names that have been vetted by our communities at the ready, so they can be used as projects are announced.

NAMES CURRENTLY BEING CONSIDERED

The School Naming Committee, which includes two elected trustees and the Superintendent, has begun the consultation process by bringing forth five potential names for three sites—all of which will begin construction in the coming year. This list of names may be used for other future sites that are pending construction.

The three sites that require names are:

Site 208
17950 25th Avenue*

Site 214
17390 20th Avenue*

Site 115
5855 148th Street*

The following school names have been brought forward:

NICOMEKL ELEMENTARY

The Nicomekl River was an early route for settlers that linked Semiahmoo and Boundary Bays, running just north of the southern uplands. The Nicomekl was considered easier to navigate compared to other nearby rivers, making it an important part of Surrey's history. Site 115 has a clear view of the river.

REDWOOD PARK ELEMENTARY

Situated on a wooded hill south of 20th Avenue, Redwood Park features a variety of exotic trees, particularly evergreens, planted by deaf twin brothers David and Peter Brown, son of early pioneer David Brown. The park includes a three-storey treehouse, reminiscent of the home in which the brothers lived on the park. Site 208 is adjacent to this park.

ARCHIBALD ELEMENTARY

144th Street was once known as Archibald Road in Surrey, when a section of it became the homestead of a Mr. Archibald near 80th Avenue. A trail linked the homestead to Yale Road and was later upgraded to a road. As 144th Street extends south into White Rock, the connecting road is still known as Archibald Road there. Although it is not on this street, site 115 is in this neighbourhood.

LITTLE CAMPBELL ELEMENTARY

The Little Campbell River served as an entrance for pioneers and early settlers in the mid-to-late 1800s, allowing them to navigate South Surrey in a time before trails and roads. The river is home to diverse wildlife and plant species, including five species of Pacific salmon and trout. This river runs near site 214.

KENSINGTON PRAIRIE

Originally named by H.T. Thrift to promote settlement in the area, Kensington Prairie is a rich agricultural area south of the Nicomekl River that stretches to the southern upland and extends east to the New Westminster Southern Railway line. Previously, Surrey Schools had a Kensington Prairie Elementary at 168th Street and 32nd Avenue, a one-room schoolhouse that opened in 1887 and closed its doors in 2006. Site 208 is in this neighbourhood.
